1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on March 20, 2009 has been entered.
2. Claims 9-16, 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 9, line 2, "comprising by" is grammatically unclear. Claim 10 is unclear because it is unclear how an "extruded metal" can be a "drawn material" since drawn materials are pulled and extruded materials are forced through a die.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 17-19, 21, 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kenney (4662545).

Kenney teaches a barrel 6 with a wire piston 32 fitting snugly inside the barrel (col. 2, lines 21, 31-32). The piston extends beyond the barrel for dispensing as shown in Figure 14. In use, the piston is withdrawn from the barrel to allow the barrel to aspirate by capillarity and then the piston is depressed to dispense (col. 2, lines 49-62). With respect to claims 18 and 19, a strip 4 is shown having plural (sprocket) holes that are structurally capable of alignment and driving, as by inserting a robotic hand. The strip could be used to attach plural pipettes as by stapling a second strip at a protruding portion.

Kenney fails to teach drawing the plunger into the barrel to aspirate.

It would have been obvious to draw the piston into (through) the barrel after dispensing a first sample in order to aspirate a second sample as was known in the art. Note that the instant claims do not preclude the additional tube 54. Note that the steps of the method of making the barrel have not been claimed. The barrel is therefore claimed in product-by-process language, and the structure resulting from this process is the same as that disclosed by Kenney.

7. Claims 9-16, 23 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

The amendment overcomes the rejection of record.

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 17-19, 21, 24 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
